

ASUCD Excellence in Education Award Recognition

The Academic Affairs Commission (AAC) serves within the legislative branch of the Associated Students of the University of California, Davis (ASUCD). With this, AAC strives to provide representation for the entire UC Davis undergraduate population, constituting over 30,000 students, on all academic concerns and needs.

Through advocacy efforts, outreach opportunities, various projects developments, and more, AAC works to better academics for all students. With this, the Excellence in Education Award was created, in order to emphasize the importance of students' voices and experiences within our academic institution.

Established in 2003, the ASUCD Academic Excellence in Education Award sets to recognize outstanding faculty who display their contributions towards this campus by exhibiting humility and respect for their students, having passion for the subject they teach, and containing a sense of leadership. Recipients represent one of the four colleges present at UC Davis, with the College of Letters and Sciences being two divisions with two recipients. This award stands out among others, as its nomination and selection process is entirely done through students.

Professor Dietmar Kueltz has been recognized for this very teaching excellence, being the recipient of the ASUCD Excellence in Education Award, representing the College of Agricultural and Environmental Sciences, both for the 2018-2019 & 2019-2020 academic year.

It is with great honor we present this award, for its receipt in two consecutive years, displaying the dedication Kueltz holds to helping students further their interest in their respective majors and succeed academically for years to come.

Signed,

ASUCD Academic Affairs Commission
